12:55pm - 1:45pm Lunch | The members dining room

1:45pm - 2:05pm Ted Talk: The many paths to retirement outcomes

Research from The Conexus Institute explores how retirees will be supported through guidance and advice. The foundation is an understanding of different retiree types, namely their personal situation and the way they will engage with their retirement decisions. From here, in an interactive manner we explore how these needs will be met by financial advisers, super fund trustees, and government. The role of technology, policy requirements, and friction points will all be discussed. At its heart, scalable solutions will require a trade off between quality, cost, and regulatory risk appetite.
